■ Stark warning as Russian spy ship uses lasers against RAF pilots

THE DEFENCE SECRETARY has issued a stern warning after a Russian spy ship used lasers for the first time to disrupt RAF pilots tracking its activity near UK waters.

John Healey told reporters the "deeply dangerous" move from the Yantar was being taken "extremely seriously" by the government.

He added that the vessel was north of Scotland and had entered UK waters for the second time this year during the last few weeks.

The UK would continue monitoring the ship and had "military options ready should the Yantar change course," he added.

"My message to Russia and to Putin is this: we see you. We know what you're doing. And if the Yantar travels south this week, we are ready," he added.

Healey said the laser incident took place whilst the Yantar was being followed by a Royal Navy frigate and RAF Poseidon P-8 planes deployed to "track the vessel's every move". It is understood the episode occurred within the last two weeks.

Speaking at a news conference in Downing Street, the defence secretary added he had changed the Royal Navy's rules of engagement so that it could follow the Yantar more closely "when it is in our wider waters".

Healey said the vessel, which entered service in 2015, was part of Russia's Main Directorate for Deep Sea Research (GUGI), which was designed to "undertake surveillance in peacetime and sabotage in conflict".

"We have military options ready should the Yantar change course. I am not going to reveal those because that only makes President Putin wiser," he said.

Asked about the risks posed by lasers, Healey replied: "Anything that impedes, disrupts or puts at risk pilots in charge of British military planes is deeply dangerous."

The Russian Embassy released a statement, saying it was "not interested in British underwater communications".

"The actions of our country do not touch interests of the UK and they are not aimed at undermining its security," the statement said.

It added: "However, London, with its Russophobic path and increasing militaristic hysteria leads to further degradation European security, providing the premise for new dangerous situations.

"We call on the British side to hold off taking any destructive steps which might aggravate the crisis situation on the European continent."

Labour MP Matt Western, who chairs the Joint Committee on the National Security Strategy, said: "Today's news demonstrates once again that Russia presents a genuine and immediate threat to the UK's security."

He added: "I welcome the seriousness with which the defence secretary is treating this issue, but there is more we can do. More assertive retaliation may be required."

The defence secretary previously issued a warning about the Yantar after it was spotted in UK waters in January, calling it "another example of growing Russian aggression".

According to the ship tracking website Marine Traffic, the ship has not broadcast its location since 2 November, and was last tracked in the Baltic Sea north of the Latvian Coast.

On 6 November, the Dutch Navy said two of its vessels escorted the Yantar out of the North Sea, where it was operating near Dutch territorial waters.

“We are already at war with Putin’s Russia”

■ UK must face reality, says former head of NATO

Russian dictator Vladimir Putin has “declared war” on the UK, a former head of NATO has warned. George Robertson, a former Defence Secretary who served as NATO Secretary General, said: “We are under-prepared, we’re under-insured, we’re under attack and we’re not safe.”

He highlighted recent cyber attacks against the UK, and accused Russia of using organised criminal gangs to undermine the west.

Lord Robertson said:

“We are in the grey zone. Putin has declared war on us. We may not be at war with them and we may have to make sure that we’re operating as if we were in that sort of conflict.”

Highlighting the role of Russia’s intelligence agency, the GRU, he said: “We are under attack in the cyber world. You could say it’s just a coincidence that all of these cyber outages have taken place in the last few weeks, but they can’t be all coincidental.”

“The organisation of sabotage right across the continent of Europe has undoubtedly been organised by the GRU, the Russian military.

“They can’t do it themselves. So they’re now contracting out, a good capitalist principle, contracting out to organised crime.”

Undersea cables connecting the UK’s internet services to the rest of the world are vulnerable and so are gas pipelines, he said.

The UK’s security services are investigating the possibility that Russia was behind a cyber attack that halted production at Jaguar Land Rover, Britain’s biggest car manufacturer. It cost the company £200 million and contributed to dire economic figures which saw activity in the UK fall by 0.1% in September,

Lord Robertson also predicted Putin would not stop at Ukraine if the Russia’s attempted invasion of its neighbour succeeds. He told the Lord Speaker’s podcast:

“We have to face the fact that Vladimir Putin’s territorial ambitions are not restricted to eastern Ukraine.”

Putin will not stop at Ukraine, claims Lord Robertson

“Neighbouring countries like Moldova and Armenia and Azerbaijan are the ones who are really genuinely worried at the present moment”

Mahmood unveils tough new rules for migrants hoping to settle in UK

Migrants who are in the UK legally could have to wait up to 20 years before they can settle permanently, under new government proposals.

The Home Secretary Shabana Mahmood has announced the qualifying period for indefinite leave to remain will be extended from five to 10 years, and will apply to the estimated 2.6 million who arrived since 2021.

The changes will not apply to people who had already obtained settlement.

Mahmood said becoming part of the UK is “not a right but a privilege - and one that must be earned”.

The package is the latest in a string of changes to the immigration system announced by Mahmood over the past week.

‘copying and pasting’

Settlement, also known as Indefinite Leave to Remain (ILR), allows someone to live in the UK permanently, work without restrictions and access public services. It is also a key step towards British citizenship.

Currently, most work and family visa holders can apply for settlement after five years.

Under the proposed changes the standard wait will be 10 years - with a range of criteria that would lengthen or shorten that period.

Legal migrants who claim benefits for less than 12 months will have to wait 15 years

People who arrived on post-Brexit health and social care visas would have to wait 15 years, up from five year currently.

Migrants reliant on benefits for more than 12 months face a 20-year wait for settlement, four times more than the current period and the longest in Europe.

Announcing the changes in the Commons, Mahmood said: “Migration will always be a vital part of Britain’s story.

“But the scale of arrivals in recent years has been unprecedented.”

Conservative shadow home secretary Chris Philp accused Labour of “copying and pasting” policies from his party that it had previously “voted against”.

Philp said his part would support the changes, but warned the new system could create loopholes and urged ministers to adopt a migration cap.

Reform UK did not respond to the statement in the Commons. But the party has previously announced it would abolish ILR - replacing it with visas that migrants must re-apply for every five years. That includes hundreds of thousands of migrants currently in the UK.

‘social integration’

Home Office figures show net migration added 2.6 million people to UK population between 2021 and 2024.

Because of this, settlement grants are also expected to spike over the next five years, with around 1.6 million people forecast to settle between 2026 and 2030.

Ministers plan to introduce an “earned settlement” system, requiring migrants to demonstrate social integration, economic contribution and good “character” before being granted settled status.

Applicants will need to meet stricter minimum requirements including the equivalent to A-level standard English language, a clean criminal record and earning above £12,570 a year for at least three years.

There will be accelerated routes for those who make an “outsized contribution” to the UK.

Doctors and nurses working in the NHS will be able to settle after five years.

Christian education in Northern Ireland ruled illegal

The UK's most powerful court has ruled Christian-focused religious education (RE) in Northern Ireland schools is unlawful because it is not objective, critical or pluralist

The case centres on a Belfast primary school girl, born to non-religious parents, who did not want their daughter to be raised as a Christian.

The controversy began when the girl came home from class and began to recite prayers before meals, telling her family she had learned to do so in school.

When the parents queried the child's RE provision with the school, staff replied they were just following Northern Ireland's Bible-based, Christian-focused curriculum.

The girl and her father subsequently took legal action, concerned that pupils in Northern Ireland were being taught to assume that Christianity was "an absolute truth".

The court heard the girl's family "strongly support" the provision of religious education, "provided it does not amount to indoctrination".

All families have the right to withdraw children from RE lessons and worship, but the girl's parents did not do so, fearing it could lead to bullying or stigmatisation.

The Supreme Court ruled teaching at the school, in accordance with NI's core RE syllabus, did not convey information in an objective, critical, and pluralistic manner and "amounts to pursuing the aim of indoctrination".

It also ruled that exercising the right to withdraw a child from RE lessons and worship may place an undue burden on an objecting parent.

Man wrongly jailed for 38 years claims Merseyside police forced his confession

Officers accused of using violence and threats to make Peter Sullivan confess to 1987 murder of 21-year-old Diane Sindall

A man wrongly jailed for 38 years has spoken of being beaten by police and bullied into making a false murder confession.

Peter Sullivan, 68, the subject of one of the longest miscarriages of justice in British history, said he had lost everything and wanted an apology from Merseyside police.

Sullivan was wrongly convicted in 1987 for the frenzied murder of Diane Sindall, 21, a florist and part-time pub worker who was killed as she left work in Bebington, Merseyside.

He had his conviction quashed by the court of appeal in May after new DNA tests were carried out.

Six months after his release from jail, Sullivan claimed he had been beaten on two occasions by police officers in his cell.

"They threw a blanket over the top of me and they were hitting me on top of the blanket with the truncheons to try and get me to cooperate with them," he said. "It really hurt, they were leathering me."

Sullivan said he had been denied food, sleep and the attendance of an appropriate adult, despite police custody records noting he had learning difficulties.

He claimed he had been told that if he did not confess he would be charged with "35 other rapes".

'apology'

Sullivan said he was not able to forgive those responsible for his imprisonment. "I can't forgive them for what they've done to me because it's going to be there with me for the rest of my life," he said.

"All I want is an apology with the reason why they done this to me ... from Merseyside police and everyone else. I lost all my freedom, I lost my mother, since I was put in prison, I've lost my father, and it hurts because I wasn't there for them."

It had been alleged that Sullivan had spent the day drinking heavily after losing a darts match and went out armed with a

The shocking murder prompted tabloid headlines about Sullivan being the "beast of Birkenhead" and "the Wolfman" because of bite marks left on the body.

Sullivan said: "The names, they'll always stick with me because I've never been anything like that."

Police reopened the murder investigation in 2023 and said the search for the killer was still in progress. To date, 456 men had been screened and eliminated from the investigation, police said.

People still lay flowers at a granite memorial stone close to where Sindall was murdered. The memorial reads: "Murdered 2.8.1986 because she was a woman. In memory of all our sisters who have been raped and murdered. We will never let it be forgotten."

Responding to the interview, Merseyside police said it "regrets that there has been a grave miscarriage of justice in this case".

Don't pay Trump a penny, says former Beeb chief

The BBC should never agree to pay a penny to Donald Trump, former director general Lord Tony Hall has said.

The corporation has apologised to the US President for a Panorama episode that spliced parts of his 6 January 2021 speech together, but rejected his demands for compensation.

'public money'

Since the corporation's retraction, Trump has indicated he may continue legal action, upping the amount he could sue for to between $1bn (£759m) and $5bn.

Asked if he could ever conceive of licence fee payers' money being used to pay Trump off, Lord Hall told the BBC's Sunday with Laura Kuenssberg: "No, [it] should not happen. You're talking about public money. It would not be appropriate."

Lord Hall stepped down as director general in 2020 after seven years in the role.

Controversy around how Trump's speech was edited has led to the resignations of BBC director general Tim Davie and head of news Deborah Turness.

The video edit was a "serious error", Lord

Hall told the BBC, adding that it should have "been recognised as such much earlier in the whole process".

Lord Hall also said he worried that the "hard work, diligence and the belief in impartiality" of BBC journalists had been lost in the debate.

'crucial time'

The resignation of two senior figures at the start of the BBC's charter renewal makes the process more difficult "at a crucial time for its future", he added.

On Thursday evening, the BBC published a statement on its Corrections and Clarifications page in which it said the Panorama programme, which was only broadcast on 28 October 2024, had been reviewed after criticism of how Trump's speech had been edited.

"We accept that our edit unintentionally created the impression that we were showing a single continuous section of the speech, rather than excerpts from different points in the speech, and that this gave the mistaken impression that President Trump had made a direct call for violent action," the statement said.

Lawyers for the BBC have written to Trump's legal team, a BBC spokesperson said this week.

But in an interview with GB News on Saturday, Trump said he had an "obligation" to sue the BBC, adding: "If you don't do it, you don't stop it from happening again with other people."

The Trump also called the edit "egregious" and said it was "worse than the Kamala thing", a reference to a dispute he had with US news outlet CBS over an interview on the 60 Minutes programme with his 2024 election opponent Kamala Harris.

UK response to Covid was “too little, too late”

Official inquiry delivers damning verdict

The UK response to Covid was “too little, too late” and led to thousands more deaths in the first wave, an inquiry into government decision-making says.

The report also said lockdown may have been avoided if voluntary steps such as social distancing and isolating those with symptoms along with household members had been brought in earlier than 16 March 2020.

By the time ministers acted it was too late and lockdown was inevitable, the report said, then a week-long delay introducing it led to 23,000 more deaths in England in the first wave than would have been seen otherwise.

‘chaotic culture’

The report criticised the governments of all four nations and described a “chaotic culture” in Downing Street.

Inquiry chair Baroness Hallett said that while government was presented with unenviable choices under extreme pressure, “all four governments failed to appreciate the scale of the threat or the urgency of response it demanded in the early part of 2020.”

Ministers were in part relying on “misleading assurances” that the UK was prepared, she said.

Government scientists underestimated how quickly the virus was spreading and in the early days were advising restrictions should not be introduced until the spread of the virus was nearer its peak to help build up herd immunity, Lady Hallett added.

public confidence

Across nearly 800 pages the report - which is the second of 10 planned by the inquiry - also set out a number of other failings:

It described it as “inexcusable” that the same mistakes of spring 2020 were repeated in the autumn as the second wave began to build and Prime Minister Boris Johnson repeatedly changed his mind about the need for tougher restrictions, which meant the second lockdown in England was only introduced in November when control was lost.

Rule-breaking by politicians and their advisers - Dominic Cummings’ trip to Durham and Barnard Castle in March 2020 was listed - undermined public confidence in decision-making and significantly increased the risk of people not sticking to Defence, as an oceanic research vessel. Western nations have often tracked it in European waters and they suspect part of its mission has been to map undersea cables.

They also believe Russia has been stepping up this activity since it launched its full-scale invasion of Ukraine.

As well as surveillance equipment the ship can operate submersible drones capable of reaching the ocean floor and sabotaging underwater communication cables.

The Russian embassy in London dismissed the defence secretary’s remarks as “absolutely baseless”, the state-owned TASS news agency reports.

The embassy said “anti-Russian alarmism” by “the British establishment and the media under its control” was being used to “deliberately stir up tension in regions of the Baltic and North Seas”.

Undersea infrastructure is crucial for energy supply through power cables and pipelines, while more than 95% of internet traffic is also secured via undersea cables.

Government gets tough on ticket touts

Reselling tickets to live events in the UK for a profit is to be banned by the government.

Ministers announced the plan on Wednesday in a bid to tackle touts and resale sites, which often offer music, theatre, comedy and sport tickets at well above face value.

Restricting ticket touts was one of the Labour government’s election pledges, as fans complained of massively inflated prices for resold tickets.

The decision comes a week after dozens of artists including Sam Fender, Dua Lipa and Coldplay urged Sir Keir Starmer to protect fans from exploitation.

A consultation on the changes had canvassed views on capping costs at up to 30% above the face value of a ticket.

But the government has decided to set the limit at the original cost, or face value, while also promising to take measures to cap extra fees to prevent the price limit being undermined.

The Department for the measures.

The report described a “toxic and chaotic” culture at the heart of the government during its response to the pandemic, which it said affected the quality of advice and decision-making.

All four nations were criticised for their planning and decision-making, which the report said was hampered by the lack of trust between Boris Johnson and the first ministers nak and agreed by Johnson to support hospitality venues in August 2020, was “devised in the absence of any scientific advice” and “undermined public health messaging”.

The impact on vulnerable groups - older people, the disabled and some ethnic minorities - was not adequately considered when deciding how to respond to the virus, despite harm to them being foreseeable

Children were not prioritised enough with ministers failing to consider properly the consequences of school closures.

The report said lockdowns, while helping save lives, left lasting scars on society, bringing ordinary childhood to a halt, delaying treatment of non-Covid health conditions and worsening inequalities.

The modelling which shows 23,000 deaths could have been saved by locking down a week earlier than 23 March 2020 was produced in 2021. The figure would have equated to 48% fewer deaths in the first wave to 1 July 2020.

NAKED CAPITALISM: Dua Lipa was among the artists who has called for the government to end the ‘fleecing of music fans’ by ticket touts

Culture, Media and Sport (DCMS) announce its intentions to end industrial-scale ticket touting, making resale tickets £37 cheaper on average, saving fans collectively £112m per year. Resale platforms will have a legal duty to monitor and enforce the new regulations.

Housing Secretary Steve Reed said touts making profits at the expense of fans was “such an important issue” as it was “hugely damaging to individuals having to pay through the nose for tickets”.

Stone Roses bassist Gary Mounfield dead at 63

■ Liam Gallagher leads tributes to the late musician, whose signature style helped to define the 'Madchester' sound

Gary "Mani" Mounfield, bassist with legendary Manchester band the Stone Roses, has died at the age of 63.

Mounfield's bass playing was an integral part of the Stone Roses' "baggy" sound, and later reunited with his bandmates for their comeback tour in 2012.

He joined another seminal group, Primal Scream, in 1996 and played with them for 15 years.

The musician's brother Greg announced his death "with the heaviest of hearts" in a post on Facebook. Oasis singer Liam Gallagher led the tributes, posting: "In total shock and absolutely devastated on hearing the news about Mani. My hero, RIP R Kid."

The Stone Roses posted on social media: "RIP our wonderful brother Mani. The greatest bass player and friend we could ever have wished for. X"

Singer Ian Brown also paid his own tribute on X, writing: "REST IN PEACE MANi X."

Mounfield's wife Imelda died in November 2023, three years after she was diagnosed with bowel cancer. The couple have twin boys, who were born in 2013.

Happy Mondays frontman Shaun Ryder posted: "RIP Mani - my heartfelt condolences to his twin boys and all of his family."

Ryder's Happy Mondays bandmate, vocalist Rowetta, posted a photo of herself with Mani and Imelda on X with the message: "Going to miss you so much. All my love to the boys, the family & all those who knew & loved him."

drums, the Stone Roses were at the forefront of the "Madchester" indie scene of the late 1980s and early 90s.

Combining a melting pot of influences from across indie, punk, psychedelic rock, dance, funk and reggae, they released their beloved debut album in 1989.

The self-titled LP

featured such classic songs as I Wanna Be Adored, She Bangs The Drums and I Am The Resurrection, all underpinned by the grooves of Mani's basslines.

It was named the greatest British album of all time by the Observer in 2004 and NME two years later.

Its harder-rocking follow-up Second Coming came out in 1994. Both albums reached the top five in the UK.

After the group disbanded in 1996, Mani joined Scottish rock band Primal Scream, first playing on their album Vanishing Point, released a year later, where his bass playing was a key part of krautrock-influenced lead single Kowalski.

Zellweger unveils Bridget Jones statue in West End

■ Image is "much cuter than me", says actress

Renée Zellweger has called a new statue of Bridget Jones "adorable", adding: "I think she's much cuter than me."

The actress was speaking as a new statue celebrating the character she played for more than 20 years was unveiled in London's Leicester Square on Monday.

Bridget Jones was created in 1996 by author Helen Fielding, and was first adapted for the big screen in 2001. The fourth film came out earlier this year.

Speaking at the unveiling, Fielding refused to rule out taking her story further, saying you should "never say never".

Zellweger added that everyone can relate to Bridget, which explains her huge appeal.

"[It's her] vulnerability, her humanness," she said. "We recognise ourselves in her, we recognise ourselves in her struggles.

"It makes it OK for the rest of us to be authentically who we are. Imperfect."

The character of Bridget Jones went straight to many women's hearts, who took comfort in her trials and tribulations.

From her embarrassing work mishaps, to her infamous granny pants, Bridget spoke to a generation who saw themselves in her - and has recently won over a whole new set of younger fans too.

The fourth film in the franchise, Bridget Jones: Mad About the Boy, was released in February, and sees Bridget living as a single mother and tackling modern dating.

It received mixed reviews, but earned the best box office opening ever for a romantic comedy in the UK and Ireland.

The film was billed as the final one in the series - but two self-described

'superfans' who waited in the London rain for the statue unveiling, Faye and Wayne, said they were sure there would be a sequel.

"There were so many things that were left unresolved at the end of the last film," said Faye.

"Her character keeps evolving. I want to be with Bridget Jones all the way to the nursing home," added Wayne.

When asked about the possibility of a new chapter in Bridget Jones' story, Fielding said: "Never say never. Stories come to you as a writer. So if a story came to me that I thought was true and interesting and new then I would write it."

Some think the floundering and flawed heroine, who's fixated with her weight and relationship status, is not the best role model.

And Fielding herself has previously admitted some parts of the story have not aged well.

"Bridget Jones's Diary couldn't be written

PART OF A LIFETIME: Renée Zellweger and her alter ego

now, set now, because all those men in the office would be sacked," she said last year. "It was a really different time."

But speaking on Monday, she said she hoped the wider message of the book would continue to chime for readers.

"I think to have the comfort of seeing a character that you can relate to, because they are real and human and emotionally honest, it's like having the friend you can be honest with," she said.

The statue is the first to celebrate a rom com on Leicester Square's Scenes in the Square trail.

The Scenes in the Square trail originally launched in 2020 with the introduction of eight sculptures featuring Laurel and Hardy, Mary Poppins, Batman, Bugs Bunny, Don Lockwood (the Gene Kelly character from "Singing in the Rain", Paddington Bear, Mr Bean and Wonder Woman.

Since then, statues of Harry Potter, the Iron Throne from Game of Thrones, Clifford the Big Red Dog and Indiana Jones have been added.

This T-Day, why not give thanks for those Turkeys...?

This Thanksgiving, maybe try cuddling a turkey rather than eating one.

The opportunity comes courtesy of Santa Clarita animal rescue The Gentle Barn, which has launched a turkey cuddle therapy program.

Their victory left runners up Quiet Piggy crying their eyes out.

Meanwhile fourth placed team Trump Daddy (top) were delighted to win a consolation potato.

There is a special Thanksgiving themed version of the quiz at O'Briens in Santa Monica next Tuesday, November 25 at 8pm, so join quizmaster Sandro Monetti and your fellow Brits there for some holiday fun.

Turkeys:

gent, affectionate and trusting creatures who love nothing more than to fall asleep in a human lap.

Recognizing their intuitive, empathetic nature, The Gentle Barn non-profit sanctuary has created the groundbreaking program which is perfect for people going through stress, grief, trauma or depression, or just to brighten someone's day.

"Turkeys love to receive and return human attention, and when they fall asleep in our laps, they show the ultimate vulnerability and connection," says Gentle Barn founder Ellie Laks. "They come to us and make us feel chosen and valuable. 'Turkey cuddle therapy' can often help where words and talk therapy cannot."

One-hour sessions are available for a $200 donation to support care for the animal residents.

The sanctuary also offers a "Turkey Guardian" program where a donation of $35 helps provide care for the 18 turkeys that live both in the Gentle Barn's Santa Clarita, California and Nashville, Tennessee locations.

Donors receive digital keepsakes including a picture of the turkey they have chosen.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: CLAUDIA BOETTCHER MERTHAN AKA CLAUDIA B. MERTHAN
CASE NO. 25STPB12779

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of CLAUDIA BOETTCHER MERTHAN AKA CLAUDIA B. MERTHAN. A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by CHARLES B. HOFFMAN AND E. THURN HOFFMAN in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES. THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that CHARLES B. HOFFMAN AND E. THURN HOFFMAN be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The WILL and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court. THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act with limited authority. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 12/15/25 at 8:30AM in Dept. 62 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Stokes calls on England to 'make history'

The Ashes: Tourists face an uphill battle in age-old rivalry England captain Ben Stokes has called on his team to "create history" by winning the Ashes in Australia.

Only five England teams have won an Ashes series in this country since World War II and just two of those successes have come in the past 40 years.

England have not taken a series Down Under since 2010-11, which was also the last time they won a Test in Australia.

But Stokes and coach Brendon McCullum have breathed life into England's Test cricket since they took charge in 2022.

After a thrilling and controversial Ashes series in the UK was drawn 2-2 in 2023, the latest edition of cricket's oldest rivalry is one of the most eagerly anticipated in recent memory.

And Stokes' team began Friday's first Test in Perth with a genuine chance of pulling off a rare away Ashes triumph.

"A lot has been spoken of about the history and how it has gone for England," said Stokes.

"This is our chance to create our own history and it is up to us how that looks."

England have not won an Ashes series since a 2015 triumph on home soil. They surrendered the urn with a 4-0 defeat in Australia in 2017-18 and have not won it back since.

Stokes has been part of an Ashes-winning team once since making his debut in 2013. He has created some all-time great Ashes moments, most notably his epic unbeaten 135 to win the Headingley Ashes Test of 2019.

The all-rounder is assured of his place in English sporting history for his exploits in Test cricket and match-winning performances in each of the 2019 50-over World Cup and the 2022 T20 World Cup finals.

If the 34-year-old were to join the other five post-war leaders to leave Australia with the urn, Stokes would be in the conversation as one of England's greatest cricketers.

"I know this is a series that probably gets highlighted above all the other series that I've been a captain in," he said.

"But it will not diminish anything of the time, energy and effort I've given to being an England captain."

England could unleash their fastest attack in a Test by naming five pacemen in their XI for the series opener at Perth Stadium.

Mark Wood, Jofra Archer, Gus Atkinson,

SMITH AND STOKES: England have not won an Ashes series since the 2015 triumph on home soil - and the hosts are predicting another Aussie win

Brydon Carse and Stokes can all touch 90mph.

The battery of fast bowlers available to the tourists for this series is a result of long-term planning to arrive in Australia with the pace England feel is required to be successful here.

"If we went back two years before we picked the squad, and that's what we had available to us, we would have bitten your hand off," said Stokes.

He added England are "fortunate" to have been able to select bowlers who can "add skill" to their pace too.

Stokes is back to fitness after recovering from a shoulder injury that kept him out of England's last Test, against India in July.

The Durham man has not completed any of England's past four series because of various injuries and his fitness will be crucial to hopes of regaining the urn.

"I've come into the series fully taking on that all-rounder role with bat and ball," he said.

"I've worked very, very hard to make sure when I am playing I'm able to give that full commitment to that role, just because I know how much of an impact it makes towards the team and how it balances the side out."

England have won once in 14 visits to Perth, against a weakened Australia team in 1978.

All previous Ashes Tests in this city were at the fabled Waca, a notoriously hostile ground for visiting teams.

Perth is hosting the first Test in an Ashes series for the first time. Rather than the Waca, the venue will be the new 60,000-seater Perth Stadium.

Australia have been hit by injuries in the run-up to this series. Captain Pat Cummins is out for at least the first Test because of a back problem, while fellow pace bowler Josh Hazlewood misses out because of a hamstring issue.

The hosts look set to give Test debuts to opening batter Jake Weatherald and pace bowler Brendan Doggett.

But Stokes does not believe England's task is made any easier by the Australia selection upheaval.

"We really like to focus on ourselves, while keeping a little side eye to the opposition," he said.

Nations Championships revealed for Rugby Union

RUGBY UNION is set for a dramatic shake-up next year with the debut of the Nations Championship, a competition which organizers promise will revitalize the sport and create a huge new revenue stream.

The tournament, which culminates in a grand final at Twickenham, will pit the north and south of global rugby against each other in a contest to be the game's dominant hemisphere.

The biennial 12-team event comprises six rounds of matches across the summer and autumn Test windows before three double-header fixture days on 27-29 November at Allianz Stadium to rank nations and crown champions.

Even split

The results from the 'finals weekend' will also contribute to a parallel contest, to decide which hemisphere prevails overall.

The Six Nations teams will be the northern hemisphere representatives, with South Africa, New Zealand, Australia, Argentina, Fiji and Japan as their opposition.

Southern hemisphere teams have won nine of the 10 men's Rugby World Cups, with England's victory in 2003 a solitary success for the north. However, the world rankings are split more evenly - with five teams from each hemisphere in the top 10.

England: Playoffs: Wales could face Northern Ireland for World Cup spot cellent cross eight minutes later.

Kane's second strike allowed him to overtake the historic record set by Pelé, who scored 77 goals for Brazil in 92 matches. The Bayern Munich striker achieved it in 112 and has netted 25 times this season in just 18 appearances for both club and country.

Albania were in good form coming into this match themselves, unbeaten in their previous eight matches, and they had a good chance to take the lead but Arber Hoxha shot straight at Dean Henderson at the end of a counter-attack.

The win means that England have become the first European side to play at least six qualifiers and win them all without conceding.

The line-up selected was the most Thomas Tuchel had experimented with a starting XI since he officially took charge of England on 1 January.

Debutant Jarell Quansah was just the seventh player to get a first cap under Tuchel across his 10 matches in charge.

The England manager has made a point of giving clarity to his players about who they are directly up against for a place in the team and this side, apart from the strong spine, showed who Tuchel currently sees as the number twos in their respective positions.

Jude Bellingham was making his first start for England since June following a shoulder injury. In his absence, Morgan Rogers' impressive performances have seen an intriguing battle develop for the England number 10 role.

But again, it was Tuchel's tactical acumen and his well-timed substitutions that saw England get another win in this impressive World Cup qualifying campaign.

Wales will host Bosnia-Herzegovina while Northern Ireland travel to Italy in the World Cup play-off semi-finals.

The winners will meet in the final for a place at next year's World Cup, with the winners of Wales' match at home.

The Republic of Ireland travel to the Czech Republic, with a potential home final against Denmark or North Macedonia.

The semi-finals will take place on 26 March and the finals on 31 March. All matches are one-legged.

Sixteen teams are competing for four spots at the tournament in the US, Canada and Mexico.

In the draw, which took place in Switzerland, pot one teams - the top seeds - were drawn at home to pot four teams, while pot two teams hosted pot three teams.

Sides were also placed in paths deciding who they would play in the final and who would be at home.

Twelve teams entered the play-offs by finishing second in their World Cup qualifying group. Four teams, including Northern Ireland, qual-

Let's hear it for the Troy!

Parrott sends Irish to dreamland with last gasp winner in Hungary

Troy Parrott completed a hat-trick with virtually the last kick of the game as the Republic of Ireland came from behind to beat Hungary and reach the World Cup play-offs in the most dramatic fashion on Sunday.

Having kept their dream of returning to the finals for the first time since 2002 alive with a stunning 2-0 win over Portugal on Thursday, Heimur Hallgrímsson's side needed a win in Budapest to secure a spot in the play-offs.

Daniel Lukacs' fourth-minute header gave Hungary the ideal start, and while Troy Parrott's penalty brought the Irish level, Barnabas Varga's stunning strike restored the home side's lead before the break.

In a nail-biting second half, Parrott's deft finish 10 minutes from time gave the Republic of Ireland renewed hope.

And after substitute Johnny Kenny was denied by Hungary goalkeeper Denes Dibusz, Parrott - the two-goal hero against Portugal - poked home the winner in the 96th-minute to spark ecstatic Irish celebrations at a stunned Puskas Arena.

It is heartache for Hungary - captained by Liverpool star Dominik Szoboszlai - as their wait for a first World Cup finals appearance since 1986 goes on.

Portugal thrashed Armenia 9-1 in Sunday's other Group F fixture to seal top spot and a place in next year's finals in North America.

That the Republic of Ireland even had the chance to make the play-offs next March was remarkable.

After picking up just one point from the first three games - a loss to Armenia unquestionably the low-point - the Irish breathed new life into their campaign with home victories over Armenia and Portugal.

But, ninety minutes from an unlikely play-off, they gave themselves a mountain to climb during a shaky start in the Hungarian capital.

Just as they did in the home match with Hungary in September, they fell behind early when Lukacs' header survived a VAR review for offside.

The Irish response to that early setback was admirable, with Parrott confidently slotting a penalty home after Chiedozie Ogbene was fouled by Attila Szalai in the box.

A fizzing left-footed strike from Varga put Hungary back on course for the play-offs, but the Republic of Ireland had not read the script.

Having expended immense amounts of energy to beat Portugal, the Irish players battled fatigue and refused to give in, with Adam Idah having a goal ruled out for offside.

But Parrott beat the trap to lift a deft shot over Dibusz and popped up again with seconds remaining to poke home Liam Scales' knock-on and send the Irish team and travelling fans into delirium after becoming the first Republic of Ireland player to score a hat-trick in a competitive game since Robbie Keane in 2014.

For Parrott, it caps the best week of his career. With Evan Ferguson injured, the AZ Alkmaar striker stunned Portugal with two goals and eclipsed that performance to keep the Republic of Ireland's dream alive.

Credit, too, should go to Caoimhin Kelleher. The Brentford goalkeeper has been the Republic of Ireland's most consistent player throughout the campaign and produced excellent saves to twice deny Roland Sallai and keep the visitors in the game before the Parrott-led turnaround.

Scotland's World Cup fairytale

■ Epic night at Hampden secures spot on the sports biggest stage for first time in 28 years

Scotland secured a place at the World Cup for the first time since 1998 in a unforgettable, pulsating encounter at Hampden on Tuesday night.

Steve Clarke's side won 4-2 against Denmark after a nail-biting match saw them score a final goal from the half-way line, prompting absolute pandemonium in the historic stadium and across the country.

The national team had to win the match to qualify, with a draw or a loss meaning play-offs to reach the 2026 tournament.

Fans travelled from all corners of the country to watch the game, with supporters' buses leaving from Edinburgh, Aberdeen, Inverness and everywhere in between.

Scott McTominay scored first with an overhead bicycle kick after just three minutes, but Denmark battled to equalise.

Scotland pulled ahead once again after Lawrence Shankland nudged a corner kick into the net, but Denmark fought back until it was 2-2 with 10 minutes remaining.

The Church on the Hill pub in Glasgow is just a stone's throw away from Hampden and a piper welcomed hundreds of revellers ahead of kick-off.

Fans flooded into the pub after the match, including Colin McLean and his son Andrew.

Colin said: "I think I've missed two games in 20 years. I've never seen anything like that."

Scotland last qualified for the 1998 World Cup in France under manager Craig Brown.

The tournament saw them lose to Brazil and Morocco, and manage a draw with Norway. They exited in the tournament group stage.

What followed was a two-decade major tournament drought for the men's national team.

They failed to qualify for six consecutive World Cups and missed five straight European Championships.

Under Steve Clarke, they returned at Euro 2020, their first in 24 years, but again finished bottom of their group.

They qualified for Euro 2024, making back-to-back Euros.

The current World Cup qualifying run has seen Scotland draw 0-0 with Denmark, beat Belarus twice and Greece once at Hampden.

They faced Greece again at the weekend in a match they thought they had to win or draw to retain hopes of automatic World Cup quali-

Scotland lost 3-2 on the night.

But Belarus's surprise 2-2 draw in Copenhagen meant Steve Clarke's side still had a chance of finishing top of Group C if they beat the Danes - giving the team one more shot at automatic qualification.

Speaking after the match, a clearly emotional Clarke paid tribute to his team.

"This was the chance. One game. This was like a play-off final. We put everything on the line," he said.

"There's always one last step, and it's always the hardest. To put their mind at ease, make them comfortable, make them know they could handle the occasion.

"Some moments in the game went in our favour. We went 2-1 up against 10 men, but conceded and we thought 'what are we doing?'"

"But that's the Scotland way."

Perfect eight for England

Kane at the double as he surpasses Pele's international goal tally

Harry Kane scored twice in the second half as England beat Albania Sunday night to complete a flawless World Cup qualifying campaign with eight wins from eight.

The Three Lions were already qualified as group winners and Thomas Tuchel made seven changes to the side that beat Serbia at Wembley on Thursday.

Alongside the changes to the starting XI, Tuchel made tactical tweaks with John Stones stepping into midfield whenever England were in possession but despite the victory it was not a vintage England performance.

Kane (above), who took his personal tally to 78 international goals, scored his first in the 74th minute when he bundled the ball in from close range from substitute Bukayo Saka's corner before he headed in Marcus Rashford's ex-
