BRAND A 'RUTHLESS SEXUAL PREDATOR', COURT HEARS

■ Actor, comedian and podcaster faces allegations from six different women in South London court

Russell Brand was described as "ruthless" and a "sexual predator" by the prosecution at the start of his trial for rape and sexual assault on Wednesday.

The 51-year-old actor and comedian faces three counts of rape, three charges of sexual assault and one of indecent assault.

The allegations, made by six female complainants, span a 10-year period between 1999 and 2009. He denies the charges.

Riel Karmy-Jones KC, for the prosecution, told Southwark Crown Court in London the women "did not know each other", "have never met each other" and "came forward independently of each other".

'monster-like'

In Thursday's testimony a woman who alleges Russell Brand raped her in a hotel room has said he turned from "camp, friendly and effeminate" to "monster-like" before the alleged assault.

She said "He was just dark and arrogant and performing - he was scary, he was demanding."

The woman told police she met Brand before he was famous while attending the Labour Party conference in Bournemouth in 1999. She alleges he later raped her.

The woman said she was left feeling "dirty" and afraid she may be pregnant in the aftermath of the alleged attack.

Before the alleged rape, the woman also said Brand made her take photos of him with his top off, which were shown to the jury.

'prancing around'

The jury were played a police interview with the woman recorded in 2023, when reporting the alleged crime, before she was called to the witness box on Thursday.

The complainant said she and Brand had gone back to a hotel room.

She told the police officer she thought Brand "was gay" when they met earlier and she didn't feel like he was "trying it on with her".

The woman said she had been in the bathroom, but when she came out "he had like briefs on - and I was like taken aback and shocked. He was prancing around".

The complainant alleged Brand told her: "Don't worry, that's how I am."

She recalled thinking "what on earth have I got into" when, she claims, a shirtless Brand made her take photos of him before the alleged attack.

She was heard telling the officer: "I'm reporting that Russell Brand did rape me."

During the video evidence, Brand watched the TV screen attached to the dock - rarely taking his eyes away. He appeared to be listening attentively and hardly moved his position throughout.

Describing the alleged encounter, the woman later told the jury: "He was big, I felt threatened and he's half-naked... I didn't think at that point his intentions were good."

"He was the centre of the show, it was like it was back on stage - he wasn't the [same] person I was chatting to."

She added: "He just changed suddenly from this... camp, friendly and effeminate to monster-like."

tearful

At one point in the police interview, she cried while saying "this was something dirty that had happened".

She said she "thought it was my fault", adding that she was "having nightmares" about the possibility of being pregnant.

The woman became tearful a number of times while giving her evidence from the witness box.

At one point the judge told the witness to "take a moment, catch your breath", after she be-

We've got your back, Burnham tells Zelensky

■ PM reaffirms UK support after Trump makes diesel deal with Putin AND calls for Ukrainian leader to be replaced

ANDY Burnham embraced Volodymyr Zelensky on Monday as he reaffirmed UK support for his embattled country, while the Ukrainian president later said he felt betrayed by Donald Trump making a deal with Russia for diesel fuel.

PM Mr Burnham said as he welcomed Mr Zelensky to No10 with a special guard of honour: "You have seen the solidarity and the support you have got from everybody here in Britain.

"We are behind you and that will not change."

'victory' for Putin

He also extended the UK's condolences to those who had lost loved ones in the previous 24 hours of heavy bombardments by Russia. Five districts of capital Kyiv were hit, including residential and infrastructure targets, and three people were killed.

After his meeting at No10, Mr Zelensky appeared on Piers Morgan Uncensored and admitted he felt "betrayed" by the US president's decision to ease sanctions on Russian diesel. He declared it a "victory" for Vladimir Putin, which has left the Russian leader "laughing" and the US on the wrong side of history.

military support

It was earlier confirmed that Britain is funding £17m in support for repairs to the Chernobyl nuclear power plant. The protective shelter of the stricken plant was damaged by a Russian drone strike last year.

The Prime Minister was also expected to announce an acceleration of military support for Ukraine, and pledge further rounds of sanctions aimed at Moscow.

Mr Zelensky had earlier been welcomed by the King in the Chinese Dining Room of Buckingham Palace.

Mr Zelensky wrote later: "I thank His Majesty King Charles III for the audience. It is important for me to have the opportunity to personally thank him for his unwavering support for Ukraine."

President Volodymyr Zelensky's visit to London follows a well-trodden diplomatic path in a war now in its fifth year.

For months, US President Donald Trump had been a largely benign presence in the conflict, promising Ukraine greater access to American air defence technology and threatening more sanctions on Russia.

"Trump betrayal"

Then last week Trump carried out an abrupt U-turn, lifting sanctions on Russian diesel and calling for Zelensky to be replaced.

Once again Ukraine's leader got on his plane to shore up support among European allies. Monday it was London, and on Tuesday, Brussels.

In the House of Commons, at the start of his weekly question time, Burnham used the opportunity to offer what he called his "unwavering" support for Zelensky and promise greater military and financial aid in the future.

But it fell to the Liberal Democrat leader, Sir Ed

HEART OF OAK: "We are behind you and that will not change," said Burnham

Davey, to ask the question journalists might have asked if they had the chance.

Sir Ed said the prime minister had studiously avoided commenting on Trump's decision to rip up international sanctions on Russia.

"This House does deserve to know his position, as does frankly President Zelensky and our brave Ukrainian allies," Sir Ed said.

"Doesn't he agree this is yet another shameful Trump betrayal of the Ukrainian people and European security?"

William Chapman was mauled to death at Yorkshire Wildlife Park on Saturday

Bereaved family left stunned as Trump makes light of British man's grisly death in social media post

Donald Trump provoked fury this week after he posted a video of the tiger mauling a man at Yorkshire Wildlife Park and a parody clip of the attack.

The US President posted footage of William Chapman's final moments before he was killed on Saturday afternoon, adding: "Don't ever mess with nature!"

He then shared an AI video of himself wrestling and hugging a tiger, set to the Tight Fit song The Lion Sleeps Tonight.

Mr Chapman's family had earlier urged people not to share clips of the attack as it was causing them severe distress.

Trump faced a backlash online for his sickening post on Tuesday evening, with broadcaster Piers Morgan writing: "This is appallingly tasteless. Delete it."

Mr Chapman's family said: "The publication and circulation of deeply offensive media content is causing them severe distress at an exceptionally vulnerable time. We ask people to stop doing this."

South Yorkshire Mayor Oliver Coppard condemned Trump's actions, saying the Chapman family had contacted his office.

In a statement, he added: "They spoke to my office, sharing the pain and suffering it's causing them knowing that videos and pictures of his death are being shared across social media.

the United States now using AI to mock that incident and the pain felt by the family of Mr Chapman, for little more than a cheap laugh on social media, should be greeted with the contempt it deserves. So I'm asking you, please, not to add to this family's pain. "If someone shares the content with you, please don't pass it on."

Downing Street said people should respect the views of Mr Chapman's family but would not directly comment on Trump posting the videos online.

The Prime Minister's official spokesman said: "I think obviously the family have made their position clear."

Mr Chapman's family also paid tribute to the 23-year-old on Tuesday.

They said: "William was a bright, warm and engaging young man whom his family dearly loved – and William loved them back. Sadly, William suffered from significant mental illness over a number of years and was consequently prescribed strong medication. The family are utterly devastated by their loss and are struggling to come to terms with what has happened."

Mr Chapman filmed his last moments as he approached Altai, a Siberian tiger, five, and posted it online after entering its lair in Doncaster, South Yorks.

Witnesses said they saw the big cat maul him and a woman tried to hold him back as he entered the enclosure.

The Jackie Palmer Stage School in High Wycombe, Bucks, paid tribute to their former student. It added: "William will be truly missed, and he will always hold a special place in our hearts."

Russia threat must bring us closer to EU, say Burnham

■ PM again signals his intent to strengthen ties to European neighbors

LONDON: Russia's attempts to meddle in European politics show why Britain must forge a closer relationship with the European Union, Prime Minister Andy Burnham said Monday, arguing that "the status quo is not good enough."

Burnham said Moscow's "campaign of hybrid attacks" and efforts by Russia to destabilize democracies and interfere in votes, including Britain's 2016 EU membership referendum, highlight the importance of strengthening the U.K.'s ties with its neighbors, years after they were weakened by Brexit.

political consensus

He told lawmakers in the House of Commons that it would be "a dereliction of duty" not to seek stronger ties with the 27-nation bloc that the U.K. left in 2020.

The statement comes after Burnham told the Labour Party's annual conference last month that "Brexit has done more harm than good" and that the bare-bones trade deal Britain has with the EU is holding the country back. He said he will seek political consensus on a new relationship, with future options including rejoining the bloc.

trade deal

The U.K. and the EU announced Monday that they will hold a summit in Brussels on Nov. 20 as a step toward strengthening ties. Burnham said the two sides will discuss a trade deal for food and drink, agreements on energy and emissions trading, "a new youth experience scheme and deeper co-operation on immigration."

He said that after the summit, Britain should have "a serious dialogue

Burnham said of Britain's relations with the EU: "the status quo is not good enough" about the different options for our relationship in the long-term."

"If we are serious about promoting growth, controlling immigration, upholding our values and security, it is a conversation we must have," he said.

Burnham's approach marks a departure after years in which both Conservative and Labour governments have avoided reopening the painful Brexit debate. Burnham remains bound by the pledge of his Labour predecessor, Keir Starmer, not to rejoin the bloc's frictionless single market or its customs union.

It's great to be back!

■ Harry and Meghan all smiles at first public engagement since returning to the UK

Prince Harry and Meghan Markle have made their first official joint public appearance since they moved from California to the U.K. in August.

The couple were all smiles as they arrived in Nottingham, England, at the first of three engagements linked to their charity work.

They were cheered by a crowd of hundreds and shouts of "I love you" as they arrived at their first event, a visit to a community recording studio, and stopped to greet onlookers, exchanging words with well-wishers. Meghan was given flowers and both she and Harry took selfies with fans.

Meghan told a member of the crowd that it's "great to be back," the Press Association reported.

She also commented on the most British subject of all, the weather, telling an onlooker, "We've got lovely weather today. We got lucky."

Harry also told an onlooker it was "great" to be back in the U.K.

Her hair slicked back in a ponytail, Meghan wore a fall-inspired, tonal look made up of British labels. A burgundy burgundy ensemble.

Meghan told a group of young girls that she feels most like herself when she's with her family and cooking. "I love doing that," she said. "I love to cook."

She advised the girls to "remember to talk to ourselves like we talk to our best friends. It's really important to be just as kind to yourself."

Former DUP leader Donaldson sentenced to 15 years in prison for historic child sex abuse

“It is highly significant that the defendant denied the offences to the police, he denied them in evidence and to the probation officer he continues to maintain his denials.” - Judge Paul Ramsey

Jeffrey Donaldson has been sentenced to 15 years in prison for a series of child sex offences, including one count of rape.

The former DUP leader stood with his hands clasped in front of him in the dock of Newry Crown Court as his sentence was handed down.

Judge Paul Ramsey said Donaldson's crimes, which took place between 1985 and 2008, had led to a “catastrophic descent into disgrace”.

He was sentenced to 11 years for his crimes against Victim B and four years for offences against Victim A.

The 63-year-old, who was convicted in June, is seeking to appeal his convictions.

Both sentences will run consecutively.

But Donaldson will spend only half his 15-year sentence behind bars. Because the offences were committed before the Criminal Justice (Northern Ireland) Order 2008 came into effect, he qualifies for 50% remission.

health care needs

Should his attempt to appeal his convictions fail, it means he will be released from prison at the end of 2033. The remainder of his sentence will be under supervision in the community on licence.

Donaldson will also be required to sign the Sex Offenders Register for life.

The former Lagan Valley MP has been in Maghaberry Prison since then and returned to it on Thursday afternoon after being sentenced.

Donaldson spends up to 18 hours a day in his cell at the prison, which holds around 1,600 inmates.

Since being convicted, he has been held in its Moyola Unit, a part of the jail used for prisoners with health care needs, and does not share a cell.

It is thought he is in this unit for his own safety from risk of attack or verbal abuse from other prisoners.

‘crumb of comfort’

Judge Ramsey said aggravating features include the length and protracted nature of the offending spanning many years.

Donaldson will spend only half his 15-year sentence behind bars

He also took into account the youth of the victims and the age difference between them and Donaldson, adding that he could not accept Donaldson's lack of other convictions as a mitigating factor.

The judge said by contesting a case, a defendant avoids the reduction in sentence they would have got if they had pleaded guilty.

“It is highly significant that the defendant denied the offences to the police, he denied them in evidence and to the probation officer he continues to maintain his denials,” the judge said.

“He has doubled-down in his denials.

“There has not been, and doubtless will not be, one word of regret, apology or shame from this man to at least provide his victims with some crumb of comfort.”

Jeffrey Donaldson's wife, Eleanor Donaldson, had faced a trial of the facts on mental health grounds, meaning the jury was asked to find out if she did the acts or did not do the acts of which she was accused.

The jury found that she had done the acts in relation to five charges – including four counts of aiding and abetting her husband's offending.

She has applied to appeal the verdict.

She cannot be given a prison sentence but could be given a treatment order or an absolute discharge.

The judge is due to decide on this at a later date.

Sally Rooney removes her books from sale in the UK

■ Author can no longer receive royalties from UK sales because she pledged to donate book revenues to Palestine Action, which is banned in Britain

LEADING IRISH novelist Sally Rooney has said her novels will no longer be supplied to booksellers in the UK as a result of her support for Palestine Action.

The Normal People writer said last year she intended to carry on using her royalties to support the group, which is a proscribed terrorist organisation in the UK.

In a statement this week, Rooney said further publication of her work could constitute a “serious criminal offence”, so she had agreed with her publisher Faber not to continue supplying her books to UK retailers.

“I have made every effort to be honest with the public about my beliefs and intentions, and I am wholly prepared to accept the consequences,” she said.

‘proud publisher’

Ebook editions have already been removed from sale in the UK, although many book shops still have existing stock of physical copies.

Waterstones confirmed that Faber had advised there were no restrictions on booksellers keeping their current copies on the shelves.

Rooney has sold more than six million books globally, including 2.3 million in the UK.

Normal People was published in 2018 and turned into a hit TV series two years later, effectively launching the acting careers of Paul Mescal and Daisy Edgar-Jones.

Rooney's other novels are Intermezzo, Conversations With Friends and Beautiful World, Where Are You.

Sally Rooney: “I am wholly prepared to accept the consequences”

Publisher Faber said: “Current legislation in the UK has led to circumstances where Faber cannot pass on UK earnings to Sally Rooney for her work.

“To sell a writer's work and not be able to pass on earnings is an unconscionable situation for a publisher.

“As such, and in full agreement with Sally, we have taken the decision that we can no longer supply her works in the UK in any format.”

Faber added: “We remain the proud publisher of her remarkable body of work, which we will continue to sell in other territories.”

The UK government proscribed Palestine Action as a terrorist organisation in 2025, saying it had a “long history” of criminal damage.

The group's activities have included targeting

Tragic Ruth Ellis finally given headstone after decades in an unmarked grave

THE last woman executed in the UK now has a headstone, seven decades after she was killed.

Ruth Ellis was 28 when she was hanged at London's Holloway Prison in 1955.

She was sentenced to death after shooting lover David Blakely and being convicted of murder.

In July she was given a posthumous conditional pardon after a campaign by her family who argued Blakely had abused her.

The request for the new headstone came from grandson Scott Walker, who wanted something "poignant and punchy" at St Mary's Cemetery in Amersham, Bucks, to mark what would have been his gran's 100th birthday last Friday.

Scott said Ellis had previously been "sort of lying in an unmarked grave" in Amersham. He said: "People kept pinching stuff off it. It just looked a bit sad."

A previous memorial using her father's original surname at her grave there had been vandalized. Scott contacted Amersham town council, which agreed to the new headstone.

Plans were discussed by relatives in Dubai, Spain and Canada, and the stone is now installed.

Following Ellis's execution she was buried in an unmarked grave at the jail. She was exhumed during redevelopment and reburied in Amersham in 1971.

arms companies linked to Israel's war in Gaza.

In her statement on Wednesday, Rooney said: "In July 2025, the direct-action protest group Palestine Action was proscribed as a terrorist organisation in the UK.

"The following month, I wrote an opinion piece expressing my intention to go on supporting Palestine Action, which is not a proscribed or otherwise prohibited group here in the Republic of Ireland."

In an article last August in the Irish Times, Rooney said she would continue using proceeds from her work to support the group despite that being an offence in the UK, and cancelled a UK trip to pick up an award over fears she would be arrested.

In her statement on Wednesday, Rooney continued: "As a result, the fulfilment of contracts to publish my work in the UK could now constitute a serious criminal offence.

"After a process of consultation and deliberation, and with my full agreement, my publisher Faber has therefore determined that it can no longer supply my work within the UK."

Mayor Kelly Thornton said: "Honouring her memory means supporting women's rights and services that understand trauma, recognise coercive control and help survivors find safety."

Campaigners included Ellis's grandchildren Laura Enston and Stephen Beard. Laura said after the pardon: "The justice system failed her. That acknowledgement matters profoundly to our family."

In 1957 diminished responsibility was introduced as a partial defence to murder, allowing a conviction to be reduced to manslaughter.

came emotional.

Brand's barrister later challenged the complainant about why she did not run back into the bathroom or leave the room when she realized Brand had removed some of his clothes.

She replied: "What was I supposed to do? Hide in bathroom? Walk out the room? Walk past him? I had no phone, no reception, no idea where I was. Run into the night with him following me?"

Russell Brand denies all the charges and has pleaded not guilty.

He has said that any sexual contact if it happened, would have been consensual.

The trial continues and is expected to last for six weeks.

Brand rose to fame as a stand-up comedian and became a household name as host of TV shows such as Big Brother's Big Mouth, and with his own radio programmes on stations including BBC Radio 2 and 6 Music.

He went on to establish a Hollywood career, starring in films including Forgetting Sarah Marshall and Get Him To The Greek. In recent years, he has turned to podcasting and now lives in Florida.

The trial continues.

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA
FOR THE COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES
ANGELIA MURDOCK,
Plaintiff,

vs.
SYSTEMS TECH UNLIMITED, LLC; CARYRON JAY OARD; and DOES 1 to 25, inclusive, Defendants.

CASE NO.: 24STCV12152

PLAINTIFF'S NOTICE AND STATEMENT OF PUNITIVE DAMAGES
(Code Civ. Proc., § 425.115; Civ. Code, § 3294) [Hon. Gary D. Roberts, Dept. 73] Dept. 733]

TO DEFENDANT SYSTEMS TECH UNLIMITED, LLC:
Plaintiff ANGELIA MURDOCK reserves the right to seek $1,500,000 in punitive damages pursuant to California Civil Code section 3294 when plaintiff seeks a judgment in the suit filed against you, Systems Tech Unlimited, LLC.
This Notice and Statement is served pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure section 425.115 to reserve and give notice of the amount of punitive and exemplary damages Plaintiff seeks against Defendant Systems Tech Unlimited, LLC. Plaintiff has alleged in the Eleventh Cause of Action (Sexual Harassment in Violation of FEHA) and Twelfth Cause of Action (Retaliation in Violation of FEHA) that Defendant acted with oppression, fraud, and/or malice within the meaning of Civil Code section 3294.
Because Civil Code section 3295(e) prohibits stating the amount of punitive damages in the complaint, this statement provides the notice required before a default may be taken (Code Civ. Proc., section 425.115, subd. (f)). A plaintiff who serves this statement is deemed to have complied with Code of Civil Procedure sections 425.10 and 580 and Civil Code section 3295 as to punitive damages.

Defendant Systems Tech Unlimited, LLC has not appeared. Accordingly, this statement is served in the same manner as a summons (Code Civ. Proc., section 425.115, subd. (g)(1)).

Saxons vs Normans: it's 1066 all over again

THE outcome was never in doubt – but it did not deter 13,000 spectators from pitching up to see the Battle of Hastings re-fought on the very spot where the armies of King Harold II and Duke William clashed in 1066.

The sellout crowd saw 500 re-enactors in full costume from across Europe play Saxon defenders and Norman invaders to bring the Bayeux Tapestry to life on Sunday afternoon.

Another 300 acted as camp followers and craftsmen at Battle Abbey in East Sussex, ahead of Wednesday's 960th anniversary.

English Heritage's weekend re-enactment showcased weapons, armour, clothes and food from the time. Crowds also enjoyed authentic music, plus displays of falconry, archery and combat training. It ended in a scripted replay of the bloody turning point in English history as William won, seized the throne – and was hailed as the Conqueror.

Roy Porter, senior properties curator at the conservation charity, said the 60th re-enactment was "one of the biggest yet... thanks to the interest generated by the Bayeux Tapestry".

The British Museum exhibition is the embroidery's first return to England since it was made 1,000 years ago.

■ Champions League: holders leave Maresca's men chasing shadows in 4-2 masterclass at the Etihad

Manchester City were brought down to earth by a masterclass from Champions League holders Paris St-Germain at Etihad Stadium on Wednesday night.

City – watched by former manager Pep Guardiola on his return to the club – were playing their first home game since being found guilty of breaching Premier League financial rules.

In an atmosphere of defiance from City's supporters, PSG stunned Enzo Maresca's side by powering into a three-goal lead by half-time.

Desire Doue opened the scoring in the 13th minute with a low shot past City keeper Gianluigi Donnarumma, before setting up the second with a perfect cross for Ousmane Dembele's header two minutes later.

PSG were tearing City apart, Vitinha adding the third after 32 minutes with a clinical finish after superb link play between Maghnes Akliouche and Warren Zaire-Emery.

Maresca made three half-time substitutions and City were a team transformed after the break, creating a host of chances before Erling Haaland pulled a goal back with a flicked header from Iliman Ndiaye's cross eight minutes after the interval.

City's hopes of a comeback were stopped in their tracks after 62 minutes when Donnarumma initially saved Akliouche's shot, only for it to drop behind him into the net.

City refused to yield, Haaland getting his second and seeing another effort miraculously kept out by PSG keeper Matvei Safonov – the one final act of drama coming when Donnarumma saved Ferran Torres' late penalty.

Guardiola was back at the place he decorated with success for a decade in a public show of support to embattled chairman Khaldoon Al Mubarak and chief executive Ferran Soriano, the Catalan a low-key presence clad in a flat cap sitting a row behind the pair.

Guardiola sometimes looked just as engaged as he did when he prowled the touchline here at Etihad Stadium, collecting the trophies now being called into question.

Pricey Barcola makes it 1-2-3

Bradley Barcola scored a fine hat-trick as Liverpool eased past LASK Wednesday night in a Champions League game that had nine goals.

Andoni Iraola's side took a first-half lead in Austria, through Ronald Araujo's first goal for the club, when he headed in from Kostas Tsimikas' corner.

Two minutes later, Barcola scored his first Liverpool goal since joining from PSG for £123m in the summer.

Lewis Koumas teed up Barcola after Rio Ngunmoha made a brilliant run down the right and the Frenchman finished wonderfully with his right-foot.

Barcola – who failed to score or assist in any of his first six games – scored another just before half-time after he was played through by Florian Wirtz, before Jeremie Frimpong made it four with a header from a Tsimikas cross after the break.

LASK pulled one back through Robert Ljubicic but three minutes later, Barcola completed his hat-trick when he got on the end of Frimpong's ball, much to the delight of Liverpool's travelling support.

Lewis Koumas then got in on the act as Frimpong got another assist but the home side restored some pride through two goals in quick succession from Florian Flecker to make it 6-3 on the night.

Iraola – who made four changes from Sunday's defeat at Manchester City, including resting Virgil van Dijk – has now seen his side win two out of two in the Champions League.

Liverpool travel to Brentford in the Premier League on Saturday before taking on Villarreal at Anfield next Tuesday.
