ROYAL COUPLE 'REGRET' OVER BOMBSHELL OPRAH INTERVIEW

■ Harry and Meg's now fear their racism claims were a "low blow"

Prince Harry and Meghan Markle's bombshell 2021 interview with Oprah Winfrey has resurfaced after reports suggested the couple "regret" statements they made while speaking with the media mogul.

According to multiple reports, the Duke and Duchess of Sussex are preparing to apologize privately for remarks that included allegations that a royal family member had made comments about their son Prince Archie's skin color.

Other reports, however, indicate that claims of an impending apology are not true, as sources close to Prince Harry and Meghan have dismissed them as "nonsense" and "total rubbish."

"humble pie"

According to a Palace insider, Harry and Meghan wish to ask forgiveness for the interview that further strained relations between the Sussexes and the royal family now that they have returned to the UK. one source which was widely quoted in the British press this week claimed: "Harry and Meghan have always known since they decided to return to the UK that they would need to eat humble pie."

One of the Sussexes'

big regrets about their exit from the UK was said to be the Oprah interview and that "Meghan knows her biggest mistake was her claim that a royal family member had discussed Archie's skin color."

The insider noted that Harry was upset with his family at the time, so he backed Meghan up; however, the couple has allegedly realized that it was a "low blow," and they know that "they're hot-headed and realize they took things too far."

Harry and Meghan reportedly desire a reconciliation and want a "sit-down" to address the statements made in the interview, which the duchess will allegedly apologize for.

Tom Sykes, a royal journalist and author of "The Dukes," in a report by leading US gossip outfit Page Six denied the rumors, saying that, "It is total rubbish; Harry has always said he will never apologize for anything."

On a brighter note for the Prince, Harry revealed the "key" rule at the heart of his marriage to Meghan as part of a wide-ranging conversation for the MasterClass series.

In the latest edition, called "Redefining Grief: Building Resilience Through Loss", the Duke of Sussex sat down with neuroscientist and grief expert Dr. Mary-Frances O'Connor to talk about his life experiences.

mental health

"The biggest factor for me is the energy and the joy and happiness that I get being with my family, especially our kids, and the joy and happiness I get by being on the ground for my work," Harry explained, in a nod to the two children he shares with Meghan: Prince Archie, 7, and Princess Lilibet, 5.

"This is balancing my work and the purpose behind that as well as being a dad and a husband and the sort of multi-identity elements coming together."

And that 'key' rule?

COLD SHOULDER? Harry and Meghan are unlikely to be welcomed back into the royal fold after the damage done by their TV interview and his book, Spare Never be apart from each other for more than ten days.

During a very candid moment, Harry also opened up about the unexpected ramifications of abruptly leaving the UK had on his mental health, explaining that he'd fallen into a depression after they arrived in Canada.

"Being in Canada, away from the stressful environment where presumably my body was just pumped full of adrenaline, within two or three days, I experienced this adrenaline crash, something that I'd never experienced before," he said.

Harry said he became aware that he "needed stress in order to get the adrenaline to make my brain function because I became useless around the house".

lasting effects

"I actually slipped into depression for about two weeks and I felt like I couldn't function without adrenaline."

Elsewhere in the interview, Harry spoke about the lasting effects his grief at losing his mother at age 12 has had on his life.

The class was released ahead of World Mental Health Day, which is held on October 10.

"I didn't cry when I was told my mum died, only at her burial, and then not again for nearly two decades," he told Dr. O'Connor.

"I was convinced that was strength, but it wasn't. It was a 12-year-old boy with no permission to fall apart and no road map for how to heal."

"You would think I had the best help in the world. I'm a prince for God's sake, but I was still grieving and didn't have any place to put those feelings."

The class was filmed in California earlier this year, prior to Harry and Meghan's relocation to the UK.

YANKS GO HOME: US redeploy Iran bombers away from RAF Fairford

■ Gloucestershire base believed to be the target of failed Iran-backed terror attack

The Pentagon confirmed on Sunday that aircraft which were stationed in Gloucestershire had been "redeployed to their home stations in the US".

It follows the arrest of six people in the past week in connection to a suspected terror plot targeting the base.

US officials said the redeployment of the bombers, which have been involved in strikes on Iran, had been ordered after more specific details about threats to the base emerged over the weekend.

Asked whether RAF Fairford was safe, the Prime Minister's official spokesman said: "Yes."

He also pointed to comments by Defence Secretary Wes Streeting saying there were "tried and tested approaches to defend our bases around the country and throughout the world", but he declined to comment further on "foreign nations' military operations".

The five British nationals, all in their mid-20s, were arrested near the base on September 27 and have since been released on bail. A sixth man, a 25-year-old dual UK-Iranian national, arrested on October 1, has also been released on bail.

Iran link

Counter-terror police have said a quantity of petrol but no explosive devices were found in vans that sparked the security alert.

Prime Minister Andy Burnham said last week there were "strong indications" that Iran played a part in the incident. A Pentagon official said on Sunday: "US Air Force bombers routinely operate around the world to support global force readiness and operational requirements."

"While operational security precluded us from confirming the movement of our assets and forces in real time, we can acknowledge now that all US bombers that were deployed to RAF Fairford have redeployed to their home stations in the United States."

The Liberal Democrats urged the government to "get a grip" on security at military bases in the wake of the US withdrawal, saying the move raised "serious concerns about security standards". Defence spokesman James MacCleary added: "With three bases breached in the past year alone, this is not something the Defence Secretary, or the country, can afford to ignore."

escalation

Foreign policy experts warned on Sunday that the alleged Fairford plot is an escalation in Tehran's playbook.

Adrian Shtuni, associate fellow at the International Centre for Counter-Terrorism, said: "Fairford is not a carbon copy of the earlier IRGC-linked Harakat Ashab al-Yamin al-Islamia (HAYI) campaign that hit London and other European cities in early 2026. HAYI went after soft, symbolic targets with ar-

"Fairford is a bomber base used for US strikes on Iran. That is the jump in ambition. Hiring from inside the society is also the point, and the secondary effect is political."

"A Hezbollah cell bombing a community centre is an external assault."

"A local teenager torching Jewish ambulances in Golders Green can be folded into a domestic argument about who belongs, especially if the suspects have a Muslim migrant background.

"The intended by-product is to aggravate Europe's own fractures – polarisation, failed integration, antisemitism – so the attack is read as a local problem rather than a state campaign."

Zionism is racism, says Green Party

■ Resolution at Party Conference prompts international condemnation

THE Green Party has been branded Britain's "first openly antisemitic party" after passing a motion declaring: "Zionism is racism."

The motion, which was put forward at the party's conference in Brighton, passed by 1,022 votes to 813 on Monday.

It means the stance will become official party policy.

Leader Zack Polanski did not cast a vote.

The Greens' former deputy leader Shahrar Ali said they were now "the UK's first openly antisemitic party".

He also posted on X: "Make no mistake, this

Queen's pays warm tribute to novelist's 'irrepressible life force'

Queen Camilla has paid tribute to the bestselling author and former politician Jeffrey Archer, who has died at the age of 86.

"Seldom does an author get to live a life as rich, varied and colourful as any of the characters in their books, or with as many surprising plot twists," the Queen said in a statement.

She added that Archer was "not without flaw", but that "friends will recall him as an irrepressible life force through all the many differing chapters of his life".

'sadness'

The former Conservative MP was jailed for perjury in 2001 after being found guilty of lying and cheating in his 1987 libel case against the Daily Star.

The Queen said he was "an exception to the end" and that it was "with sadness that I learned of his death yesterday, on the eve of publication of his final work and so soon after appearing at my Queen's Reading Room Festival".

Archer was a supporter of the Queen's Reading Room charity.

"My sympathies go to Mary and the family at this time of sorrow. I hope it may be some consolation for them to know what pleasure Jeffrey brought to me and to so many millions of readers through the pages of his works.

"Wherever the next page turns to, I trust there will be champagne and Shepherd's Pie in abundance. Camilla R."

Archer's parties were known for serving champagne and shepherd's pie to guests.

Jeffrey Archer, roguish former Tory politician and novelist, dies aged 86

■ Publisher says author died peacefully at home 'between writing sessions'

Jeffrey Archer, the bestselling author and former MP whose political career ended in disgrace when he was imprisoned for perjury, has died at the age of 86.

Archer, who was a Conservative MP for five years before serving as the party's deputy chair, died "suddenly and peacefully" at his home "between writing sessions" on Monday, his publisher HarperCollins said.

He had a successful career as an author and was made a life peer in 1992.

Archer sold more than 300 million books in his five-decade writing career, including the Clifton Chronicles and Kane and Abel, and often set the novels in his home town of Wellington, Somerset.

jail time

In a statement, Archer's publisher HarperCollins said the author died "suddenly and peacefully at home" on Monday between writing sessions.

The former Conservative MP was jailed for perjury in 2001 after being found guilty of lying and cheating in his 1987 libel case against the Daily Star.

Archer was born in north London in 1940 but soon moved to Weston-super-Mare in Somerset, where his family bought a house from John Cleese's mother.

In 1969, Archer was elected MP for the Lincolnshire constituency of Louth.

He served as an MP for five years before becoming Conservative Party deputy chairman.

He moved to the House of Lords in 1992 but was jailed for four years for perjury and perverting the course of justice in 2001.

He was found to have lied in libel action he had brought against the Daily Star newspaper, in which he was awarded £500,000 in damages.

The Star had alleged Archer had slept with a sex worker.

false alibi

The peer was found by the court to have perverted the course of justice by asking a former friend to give him a false alibi and producing fake diary entries to back up his story.

He was also found to have perjured himself on oath during the libel trial.

He was released in 2003 and returned to the House of Lords until he retired in 2024.

Conservative Party leader Kemi Badenoch described Archer's death as "devastating news". "We will miss him very much," she told BBC Breakfast on Tuesday, adding that he had texted her earlier on Monday.

Badenoch said he was "very much loved by the Conservative family", adding: "I'm glad that I saw him recently."

Speaking about what she described as "other parts of his life", she said: "He did serve his time, he made amends, and he wanted to do a lot of good in the world."

Former Conservative prime minister Sir John Major said "we have lost a man who lived one of the most remarkable lives of our age", and that he will be "much missed – and long remembered".

TORY GRANDEE: Jeffrey Archer was a particular favorite of former Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher

Broadcaster Gyles Brandreth told BBC Breakfast that he was with Archer on Sunday. "I mean, literally 72 hours ago, doing a show in the West End of London celebrating this book, the publication, and he was in great form.

"He didn't really acknowledge that he'd changed much since being in prison, but I think he became a nicer person in some ways, a gentler, a milder person after the prison experience."

Former Conservative Party leader Iain Duncan Smith described Archer as "a remarkable man who did everything at full bore", adding: "There were simply no half measures with him."

Other former ministers also paid tribute. Sajid Javid said Archer had been a "dear friend", while Sir Jeremy Hunt said Archer had "showed enormous kindness with his advice about how to become a writer".

James Cleverly said the author and politician had been "a huge personality and fantastic storyteller", and that he had been very supportive when his wife Suzie was recovering from cancer.

Reform UK member and former Conservative minister Nadim Zahawi, wrote: "Jeffrey Archer was a dear friend and an extraordinary human being. His gift for storytelling was matched by his wit, warmth and boundless energy. Life was never dull in Jeffrey's company."

The motion sets into the Greens' policy that Zionism, the movement to develop and protect a Jewish state in Israel, will be "treated as any other form of racism".

A party spokesman said: "This has been a serious and deeply felt debate within our membership.

"Our members value the ability to bring forward and decide party policy, and conference has now made its decision.

"The Green Party is an anti-racist party and has consistently opposed the illegal occupation of both Palestinian and Syrian land, called for an end to arms sales to the Israeli government and spoken out fearlessly about the devastating situation in Gaza and the West Bank. Those positions remain central to our approach."

Mountbatten-Windsor police raids were unlawful, court rules

■ 'Technical errors' are embarrassing for Thames Valley police but unlikely to affect outcome of investigation

Andrew Mountbatten-Windsor has won his legal challenge against Thames Valley police over search warrants used to raid his home after they arrested him.

The former prince brought a judicial review of the legality of the force's actions and those of the central criminal court, which granted the warrants.

On Thursday, Mr Justice Hilliard, sitting at the high court in central London, said Thames Valley police (TVP) had conceded that it obtained the search powers under the wrong statutory provision and ruled that the warrants were unlawful.

The episode is embarrassing for TVP but police believe it will not affect the success of the investigation.

Following Thursday's hearing, items seized in the raid continue to be held by the police, with a further hearing to take place in 2027 to decide whether the material can be used as evidence.

legal challenge

Meanwhile, the criminal investigation into Mountbatten-Windsor is ongoing.

The former prince, who denies any wrongdoing, was arrested by police on 19 February on suspicion of misconduct in public office, after which he launched a legal challenge over the legality of the search warrants.

The force said it accepted that the "initial court's decision to issue warrants under the specific piece of legislation used was incorrect" before they searched the properties.

On Thursday at the High Court, judge Mr Justice Hilliard said Mountbatten-Windsor and the police had agreed that the search warrants had been unlawful.

However, he added: "The fact that the search warrants were quashed does not bring the investigation to an end or

Knife killer refugee given indefinite jail term and will be deported if released

AN Afghan refugee who killed a council street cleaner out walking his dog and wounded his landlord during a stabbing spree has been locked up indefinitely.

Uber driver Dawood Safi, 28, fatally stabbed Wayne Broadhurst, 49, in the street during a knife rampage that started at his home on October 27 last year.

Minutes before killing Mr Broadhurst, Safi had attacked his landlord, police contractor Shahzad Farrukh, while gripped by paranoid delusions and hearing voices in his head.

Safi, who also stabbed a 14-year-old boy, was described as looking "possessed" as the incident unfolded in Uxbridge, west London.

Southwark crown court heard Safi, who was smuggled into the UK on the back of a lorry in 2020, had suffered a "collapse"

Dawood Safi was gripped by paranoid delusions ahead of his killing a man walking his dog in his mental health in the days before the attacks.

He was suffering delusions that his family was conspiring against him. Prosecutor Jonathan Laidlaw KC said Mr Broadhurst, a street cleaner, had the "terrible misfortune" to walk with his dog past the house and was stabbed 14 times by Safi.

He admitted manslaughter by diminished responsibility, was convicted of attempting to murder Mr Farrukh and pleaded guilty to ABH against the boy.

mean that the whole of the investigation is unlawful."

Mountbatten-Windsor opposes the police's bid to retain the evidence, the judge said, and another hearing is expected in 2027.

His lawyers have used a judicial review to challenge the actions of the force's chief constable and the Central Criminal Court in the build-up to his arrest.

electronic devices

His arrest arose after the US Department of Justice published documents which raised suspicions he had forwarded confidential information to the convicted sex offender Jeffrey Epstein when Mountbatten-Windsor was a UK trade envoy in 2010.

He has consistently denied any wrongdoing in relation to Epstein.

The court heard on Thursday that Thames Valley Police seized documents and electronic devices when they raided Mountbatten-Windsor's homes earlier this

Thames Valley Police's position was that they had applied for search warrants under section eight and nine of the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 at a hearing at the Central Criminal Court the day before the search.

That court determined that only section eight search warrants were needed and they were granted on that basis - but subsequently, a legal challenge has established that the court should have issued them under the section nine.

The judge explained on Thursday why the police could keep hold of the former prince's items that had been seized.

He said: "There would be little point in handing property back if it could then simply be lawfully seized under some other provision."

A Thames Valley Police spokesperson said: "The agreement that led to the quashing of the warrants relates specifically to a decision made by the court regarding the legal basis for these and is not a judgement on our ongoing investigation.

"We ensured the court was presented with all the necessary information and paperwork to inform their decision, following the correct legal processes throughout.

"We accept the position that the initial court's decision to issue warrants under the specific piece of legislation used was incorrect and therefore these must be legally quashed.

"Legal proceedings are currently ongoing to decide how material seized during the searches will be managed and whether we can lawfully retain it in support of our ongoing investigation."

The force said its "investigation into alleged misconduct in public office by a man in his 60s from Norfolk remains ongoing, and we continue to pursue all reasonable lines of enquiry to effectively and fairly progress this investigation".

Canadian firm coughs up $8.9bn for Boots

The Canadian family that once owned Selfridges department store has bought the UK pharmacy and beauty retailer Boots for $8.9bn (£6.74bn).

Wittington Investments, the holding company of the Weston family that controls the Loblaws grocery chain and Shoppers Drug Mart pharmacy outlets in Canada, will own Boots' UK and Irish retail operations and opticians chain, the No7 beauty brand and a franchise arm in Thailand.

The acquisition of the Nottingham-headquartered chain, which has 1,800 stores across the UK and employs 50,000 people, is also being backed by the investment firm Fairfax, which owns The Sporting Life Group and Sleep Country, Canada's largest mattress retailer, which owns Simba Sleep in the UK.

Galen Weston, the chair of Wittington, who is likely to become chair of Boots, said: "Boots is one of Britain's most enduring businesses, with a rich heritage, a trusted name and a vital role in every-

Royal Navy sailor accused of spying for Russia appears in court

A junior Royal Navy intelligence specialist from Bedfordshire accused of trying to pass military secrets to Russia appeared in court on Thursday.

Teddy Young, 24, was accused of abusing his high-level security clearance to access secret defence and intelligence data after being deployed on a warship.

The navy rating was also said to have made efforts to contact Russian authorities directly, drafting a message in Russian containing classified information that he hoped to pass on.

Young was arrested at his home in Bedfordshire on Tuesday after an investigation by Counter Terrorism Policing London (CTPL). He was charged with offences under the National Security Act, the Metropolitan police said.

Young appeared at Westminster magistrates court wearing a grey navy tracksuit and spoke only to confirm his name, date of birth and address in the village of Clapham, near Bedford. No application was made for bail, though the district judge made clear it would be denied.

Annabel Pilling, presiding, told Young: "On the basis of the information I have already read, there are substantial grounds to believe that if granted bail you would not come back to court and that you would make efforts to avoid further court appearances and would commit further offences."

Young was remanded in custody to appear before a specialist judge at the Old Bailey on 16 October.

The Crown Prosecution Service said between 26 November 2024 and 21 May 2025 Young had engaged in conduct in preparation for committing an offence of disclosing protected information.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: KATHLEEN MARY ROCHE CASE NO. 26STPB10246

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of KATHLEEN MARY ROCHE. A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by STEPHEN A. ROCHE in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES. THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that STEPHEN A. ROCHE be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority. A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 10/09/26 at 8:30AM in Dept. 615B located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012 IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law. YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk. Attorney for Petitioner ALBERT J. AUSTIN, ESQ. - SBN 102958 AUSTIN & AUSTIN 275 E. day life across the UK and Ireland.

"We see a meaningful opportunity to make a great business even better through stable long-term ownership, further capital investment, and the renewed operating focus required to serve customers with excellence for generations to come."

The transaction, which sees the exit of Boots' long-term backer Stefano Pessina and his latest backer, the financial firm Sycamore Partners, is subject to regulatory approval and is expected to close in the first quarter of 2027.

"Boots is an iconic brand and a British institution," said Pessina, who took Boots private with the backing of the investment firm KKR in 2007. He has since kept a stake under different private equity owners and merged and demerged it from Walgreens.

"It has been one of the privileges of my and [my wife] Ornella's life to have been so closely associated with Boots over the last 20 years. We are delighted to be passing on a thriving Boots to strong and reliable owners who understand the value of its great heritage."

ARIES: Good time now to get ready for putting your most important long term goals at the top of your to do list. Do not procrastinate.

TAURUS: You are likely feeling concerned about your future finances or career this coming week. This is understandable considering how many expenses you have had of late. Take one day at a time.

GEMINI: Make time to get up and get going as soon as you can as Mars is in a powerful friend Leo and he is gearing up for a while ahead. Time to get motivated.

CANCER: Your moods can change quickly now due to Venus going back over stuff in cousin sign Scorpio and so its good that you are mostly low key.

LEO: You should be starting to process and complete, also understand things as they happened in your life from your distant past. It is becoming clear now you can not change what has already happened.

VIRGO: Do not push too hard, let yourself breathe and relax. You are the biggest worrier of all the signs. Time to show your organized side to those that need your help. Just do not forget your own needs.

LIBRA: You can expect to receive financial surprises this next few days. Venus your boss is in your money house going backwards and can bring up some news. Happy Birthday!

SCORPIO: Remember to heed your intuition now. It has and continues to be your best friend. Your boss Mars in Leo now is very much on your side. Just know that and it's time to let go of the past now.

SAGITTARIUS: Its not currently a time to be self indulgent or downhearted. You are the free spirit of the signs. Your boss Jupiter is currently in your cousin sign Leo. Something good will transpire.

CAPRICORN: It's time to lighten your outlook about any situation currently now. Your boss Saturn is going backwards now and so it is bringing up unfinished business to finally complete.

AQUARIUS: Its a good time to set your intentions and be ready to move on them as soon as you can. You are some what resistant to changes so just try to be open as they are coming.

PISCES: Don't look backwards just look up and at what you want to achieve most of all now. Expect news from your past, possibly a romantic renewal or gift.

More questions than answers for Scotland boss

Sebastien Pocognoli has been left with plenty to chew over after his first batch of games in charge of Scotland.

A 2-1 home loss to Slovenia on Tuesday left the Belgian with a record of two defeats, one win and one draw from four Nations League matches.

Losing at home to the Slovenes was a “sobering experience” in which Scotland were too “easy” to play against, says The Herald football writer Stephen McGowan.

“I think people were looking for a new start with aggressive, front-foot football and I don’t think there’s been much evidence of that so far,” McGowan added.

“It does take time to build a team and the Nations League gives Pocognoli a chance to do that without it being his last chance to win. I do think people would have liked to have seen a bit more evidence of progress so far.

Speaking on the BBC’s Scottish football podcast, McGowan added that the players “didn’t look especially comfortable with the [3-4-2-1] formation” Pocognoli deployed.

“It felt at times as if the players didn’t especially know what they should be doing and what was being asked of them,” he said.

“They didn’t look massively comfortable. I think Pocognoli probably has to go back to the drawing board and reconsider what he’s doing because on the basis of what we’ve seen in a couple of games, it’s not looking particularly good at the moment.”

City’s Maresca remains upbeat

Manchester City head coach Enzo Maresca says the “feeling is fantastic” among his players and they “don’t care too much about the noise” surrounding the club after it was found guilty of the majority of the 115 charges brought against it by the Premier League.

The club’s international players returned to training on Thursday, nine days after the Premier League published a damning report that stated the club had used “sham” contracts to disguise secret funding of more than £830m.

It emerged that Maresca planned to address the players upon their return to domestic duty after news of the verdict broke while the majority of the squad were away with their respective nations.

It is understood the City head coach asked his players not to allow the crisis that has engulfed the club to affect their attitude and focus as the Premier

League campaign gets back under way this weekend.

“The feeling is fantastic, to be honest,” Maresca said in an in-house interview when asked about the mood among his squad prior to their trip to face Liverpool on Sunday (16:30 BST).

“The players are excited for the next two games. But especially they are excited because in this moment we are top of the league. The players are just focused on that.

“They know what we can control is the football side - they are not worried at all about different things.

“They know their profession and they know that the noise is there, but they don’t care too much about the noise. They are just focused in this moment on how we can beat Liverpool and how, together with the fans, we can try to win in Anfield.”

Maresca added he felt “calm” and his squad trusts the club “completely”.

City have launched an appeal and have publicly maintained their innocence.

The private communication to those with links to the playing staff at City has been equally as emphatic, it is understood.

Speaking to Sky Sports, striker Erling Haaland echoed his manager’s sentiments, saying: “I care a lot about this place. I spent

Bellamy no fan of extended international break

Craig Bellamy suggested the new four-match international window had counted against Wales after Sunday’s Nations League defeat against Denmark.

His side failed to build on Thursday’s win over Norway as they were deservedly beaten thanks to a second-half Rasmus Hojlund penalty.

It was a third loss in four games played inside 10 days as part of the newly elongated international break.

Head coach Bellamy said his injury-hit squad paid the price for the heavy workload he feels benefits the bigger nations and “puts a real stress” on countries like Wales.

“Physically, I completely agree with the ones who don’t like [the new window]. It makes no sense,” he added.

CRAIG BELLAMY: “I was one of the ones who wasn’t voting for it”

“Four games at this type of level... for the other nations, we know who they are because I was in the room when they all voted for it.

“I was one of the ones who wasn’t [voting for it], because we know it’s a complete disadvantage to us.”

Traditionally, international sides have played six games across three windows - all of which have featured two fixtures - in September, October and November.

But for the first time this year, the September and October breaks were merged.

Wales’ hopes of coping with the new schedule were not helped by a string of injuries.

“If we have a few injuries, which we had more than one or two, they miss four games,” said Bellamy.

“We can deal with two, do you understand? And then the squad will get really tested. The intensity of the squad, the athleticism, really I think [the four-game break] is designed for the elites.”

my first four years here, it’s a special place for us. I care a lot about City and the fans. I am a fan myself. I feel with them.

“The fans will have a good time on Sunday - we have to stick together. We have to stay with each other and stay positive. No matter what happens in life, we always have to smile. Stay positive, look ahead, and try to win football games and enjoy the situation.”

■ Harry Kane equals Shilton's all-time appearance record AND bags a brace in 3-0 Nations League win

Harry Kane celebrated his record-equalling 125th England cap with two goals in a comfortable 3-0 Uefa Nations League victory against the Chechia at Wembley on Tuesday night.

Kane made it a remarkable tally of 91 goals for England on the night he drew level with Peter Shilton - and is now firmly on course to become the first player to reach a century for his country.

England built on the win against the Czech Republic in Prague and the outstanding 7-0 victory in Croatia with another convincing display to delight head coach Thomas Tuchel and the home support.

Kane had a hand in England's opener after 27 minutes, when his cross was turned into his own net by former West Ham United defender Vladimir Coufal.

The goal Kane and Wembley craved came five minutes before the break, England's captain applying a simple close-range finish to Morgan Rogers' excellent first-time delivery.

And Kane was on target again after 57 minutes, rising at the far post to head home Lewis Hall's corner.

Kane departed to a well-deserved standing ovation when he was replaced by Dominic Calvert-Lewin in the closing minutes.

England's Uefa Nations League campaign may have started with defeat against World Cup holders Spain at Wembley but three subsequent victories, all achieved in convincing fashion, hinted at progress and optimism.

Indeed, it could have been four wins from four had Kane scored the penalty that would have put England 3-1 up against Spain before the lost 3-2, but head coach Tuchel will have been highly satisfied with what he has seen since.

England, after winning 7-0 in Croatia, were a threat again against the Czechs at Wembley, although Eberechi Eze failed to make the most of his opportunity with in-form Anthony Gordon rested.

Tuchel's attacking force is now set in stone, led by captain Harry Kane, with Gordon and Bukayo Saka on either side and Jude Bellingham stamping his world-class in the number 10 position.

Trent Alexander-Arnold took his chance at right-back after being recalled by Tuchel following his World Cup exclusion, looking solid

BETTER WITH AGE? Kane has scored 91 goals for England on current form and barring injury should notch a century of goals for his country in defence - albeit not under huge pressure - while offering an extra dimension in attack.

Newcastle United's

Hall now has strong claims to be first-choice left-back, while Jarell Quansah impressed with his versatility at right-back then in central defence against the Czechs, cementing his place as a vital part of Tuchel's squad.

England's Fab Four provide killer Tuch...

There was a sense of inevitability that England captain Kane would be the star turn in Tuesday's 3-0 win over the Czech Republic as he celebrated equalling Peter Shilton's record of 125 England caps.

Kane, still irreplaceable at 33, added to his goals tally as England's all-time record scorer, his total of 91 now 38 ahead of Wayne Rooney, who is in second place in the listings with 53 goals in 120 games.

This alone will have delighted Tuchel, but even more satisfying for the German is that he now presides over an attacking quartet that can pose a threat to any side in world football.

Kane is the peerless spearhead, but Anthony Gordon - on target in the three Nations League games against Spain, the Czech Republic and Croatia before being rested here at Wembley - has moved his game on to another level since joining Barcelona from Newcastle.

Gordon is a creator with burning pace, while on the right flank Bukayo Saka has looked rejuvenated after a World Cup during which he was hampered by an Achilles injury, as he proved with two goals in Croatia.

And, just behind them all, with everything he does stamped with world class, is Jude Bellingham, England's player of the year and the golden future of his country at only 23.

This may be bad news for Chelsea's Cole Palmer, whose withdrawal from England's squad has allowed others to cement their place in front of him, with Nottingham Forest's Morgan Gibbs-White proving his commitment by cutting short a family holiday to join the squad after being excluded initially.

England's front four looks a natural fit, augmented by Chelsea's Morgan Rogers, while Liverpool's 18-year-old Rio Ngumoha will be an international contender for years to come.

If Tuchel can keep his fab four firing, England will be a danger to any opponents, and they are already eyeing their return fixture with Spain with relish.
